CGL Hires New Director of Business Development

Columbia, SC (June 14, 2012) – The leading criminal justice facility services firm in the nation, CGL, has named Matthew J. Skarr as its new Director of Business Development.

Mr. Skarr, formerly of Dewberry Architects, Inc., will be responsible for domestic business development and marketing of CGL's unique and diverse set of in-house facility services lines — including facility planning, construction program management, building maintenance and management, development, and public-private partnerships.

"The strategic hiring of Matt Skarr exemplifies CGL's commitment to growing and servicing its domestic presence and clientele. Matt's knowledge and experience show our clients that CGL is dedicated to providing the best and most innovative services for their criminal justice facilities," said Steve Carter, Principal and original co-founder of CGL.

"Matt is an important part of CGL's service-oriented approach," said Mr. Carter.

"I am honored to be part of the great minds at CGL, who continue to shape the corrections industry around the globe," Skarr said. "CGL's ability to provide a full spectrum of services to its clients with only in-house personnel creates one of the most unique opportunities in corrections today."

As a young, up and coming business development and marketing professional, Skarr has made a name for himself in the national corrections marketplace in just three short years. Before joining CGL, Skarr served as the National Director of Business Development and Marketing of Justice Architecture at Dewberry Architects, Inc.

Mr. Skarr has a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from the University of Iowa. He currently resides in Naperville, IL, with his fiancée and two sons, Nolan and Kaden.
