Hunt Companies Donates Land and $200,000 To City Of Richardson To Create A New Art Park

Hunt Companies, Inc. (Hunt), along with the mayor of Richardson, Texas, Richardson City Manager, and Local Artist, Ed Carpenter, recently held a ribbon cutting ceremony to officially commemorate the land where a new Art Park will be located. The park will be adjacent to the new high-rise building, the Mallory, and will include an iconic art piece by Carpenter named "Micro Macro Mojo."

The piece is installed at Greenville and Alma and celebrates the history of technology in Richardson. The location was specifically chosen for the unique public art opportunity since it is highly visible, located at the center of the community and Telecom Corridor® area and is in close proximity to the Central Trail for pedestrians to enjoy. Hunt deeded the land back to the City and contributed another $200,000 in funding for the landmark art sculpture to enable this Art Park to happen. The Art Park will serve as a gateway to the City of Richardson.

"We were honored to play a role in this significant monument which will be the focus for all those who visit Richardson," stated Terence Johnson, Development Manager at Hunt. "This new site will not only serve as a beautiful landscape for visitors and residents to enjoy but will allow local artist, Ed Carpenter, to demonstrate his highly qualified skills."

The 70 feet high structure is shaped like a torch, marking the point of entry into Richardson. Its upward reaching gesture is optimistic and expansive, and its stainless steel and laminated glass refined and contemporary. Tapering from 24 feet across at the top to just eight inches wide at the base, the dramatic artwork appears to be balanced like a ballet dancer on one toe.

Hunt developed The Mallory with construction led by its affiliate, Moss. Pinnacle, also an affiliate of Hunt, manages the property, which is centrally located in the heart of Richardson's telecom corridor just minutes from UT Dallas. The 281 units are spacious with modern floor plans, luxury finishes, high ceilings, and eco-friendly features. Outdoor amenities include a pet park and dog spa, and rooftop Sky Deck with tropical pool oasis with private poolside cabanas. The property is 97% leased.

This public art installation corresponds to the goals set for the City's Public Art Master Plan adopted in 2015.
